A Kirghiz-Kassak Love-Song.

(ENGLISH VERSION.) See'st thou the snow

In that wild Steppe below, Where the whirlwinds of Arai Sea furlously blow ?

It is not more white, In the moon's silver light, Than the bosom which pillows my dark brow at night !

See'st thou that stain Of red blood on the plain Where the Kirghiz a lamb for the death-feast has slain ?

It is not more red On its snow-spangled bed, Than the cheek of the lov'd one who cradles my head See'st thou the trunk

Of that pine-tree, all shrunk Since the wild-fire of heaven its life-sap has drunk? It is not more dark In its lightning-reft bark,

Than the shades which the tints of her raven locks mark ! See'st thou the beam Of the watch-fires, that gleam

Where the banners of Tchinghiz o'er Kirghiz tents stream !

It is not more mild. In its light undefiled. Than the love-longing glance of the Aral Steppe's child !

NOTE. A Russian Translation in prose of the above Love-Song was published by the Russian Traveller Timkolsky. Another Russian Traveller, Alexis Leftchin, has published a very interesting book about the Kirghiz Kassaks, with the Russian Title:- "Opisanie Kirghiz Kaysaksky, ili Kirghiz-Kassaksky Ord i Stepei" (A description of the Hordes and Steppes of the Kirghiz Kaysaks or Kassaks.) They must not be confounded with the Cossacks of the Don, in Europe. E. M. D.

VARIETY.

"I don't believe in fashionable churches," said a lady, recently; " but after all, considering that we all go to the same heaven, perhaps it's better to keep up the same distinction as long we can."

The cable sadly announced, the other day. "The Pope has had another chill." And now the patent-inside papers of Iowa joyfully declare that "the Pope has another child." The Holy Father is justified in all his anathemas against An exchange relates the following "gambling transaction:" A young lady bet a young man a kiss that Tilden would be elected—he to pay if Tilden won, she to pay if Hayes was elected. On the morning of the 8th of November he called and paid the bet; on the 9th of November he called and took it back. That evening she paid the bet. Next morning she took it back, and he paid; then she paid and he paid, and so they have been kept busy by the contra-dictory dispatches ever since, both declaring their willingness and the ability to hold out until Congress decided the question. Last Monday night she made the last payment, but hoped the matter would be thrown into court.

THE MULE .- (After Tupper, and not very long Who have seen a mule die? Hath the vision of man encompassed one upon his last legs about to keel over? Nixy, my boy, for the mule is immortal! He liveth a thousand years, and braceth up, and taketh a fresh hold for twenty thousand, Such is the vastness, the grandeur, the greatness of the animile. He is a big thing !

Why is he a thing that is big? Thou fool go to the ant and consider He is big because he is not little and Bigness differeth from littleness even as the flea-differeth from the barndoor. Be wise, oh man, pad out thy skull with knowledge, and learn wisdom of me, the poet of 23 Merchant Street, Up stairs, over Dr. Stangenwald's. the obvious.

A Conscientious Jury .- An old story is well retold in a recent issue of a Southern journal, as follows: " A jury in Alabama had been impaneled in a case of a Mr. Johnson, charged with killing his wife. The evidence was positive and conclusive, leaving no doubt of his speedy conviction. To the amazement of all, the jury, after a short absence, returned a verdict, 'Guilty of horse-stealing.' The judge, astonished, asked an explanation, stating that the indictment was not for horse-stealing, but manslaughter. The foreman, with his hand upon a huge law-book, and with an amusingly dignified air, informed the court that 'it was not a case of manslaughter, but womanslaughter, for which the law made no provision, but being satisfied the man deserved horse-stealing, which, in that country, would be sure to hang him." to be hanged, they had brought in a verdict of

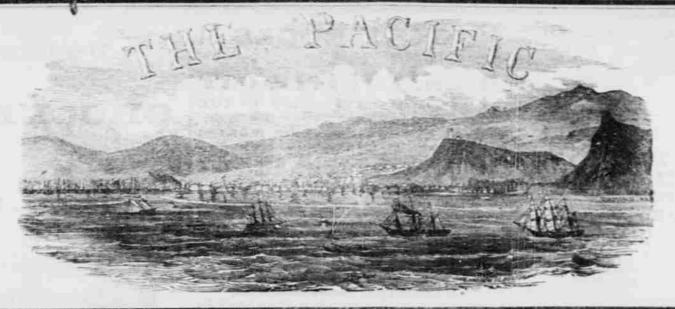

This is the old Hebrew cabalistic legend of Lilith, the first wife of Adam, as told by M. D. Conway, in his lecture on the devil : "She was a cold, passionless, splendid beauty, with wondrous golden hair. She was created Adam's equal in every respect, and, therefore, properly enough, refused to obey him. For this she was driven from the Garden of Eden, and Eve created-made to order, so to speak-of one of Adam's ribs. Then the golden-haired Lilith, jealous, enraged, pining for her first home in Paradise, entered in the form of a serpent, crept into the Garden of Eden, and tempted COMMISSION MERCHANT AND GEN-Adam and Eve to their destruction, And from that day to this, Lilith, a cold, passionless beauty, with golden hair, has roamed up and down the earth, snaring the sons of Adam, and destroying them. You may always know her dead victims, for, whenever a man has been destroyed by the hands of Lilith, you will always find a single golden hair wrapped tight around his lifeless heart. To this day many and many a son of Adam is lured to death and ruin from having the golden hair of a woman wrapped too tight around his heart.

A BLUE GLASS EXPERIMENT .- Charleston Journal of Commerce: Mr. Blimley read about blue glass until he became a convert to the doctrine. Having a boy baby about three Paints, Oils, Nails, &c., &c. months old who has been somewhat puny and has given evidence of weak lungs, he had an PAUAHI, MARY ELLEN, FAIRY QUEEN, UILAMA, east window of his house paned with blue glass and exposed him to the sun's rays for an hour or two for several days. Last Sunday being a sunny day, the baby was left under the blue window for three hours, at the conclusion of ING. Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Jeweiry, Perfumery, Pocket Cutlery, and every description of Gent's Superior Furnishing Goods. 17 Benkert's Fine Calf Dress Boots, which time he got up and went down stairs, declaring that he had had enough of that "doggoned foolishness." On Monday he was exposed for four hours. At 12 o'clock on Monday night he threw his off foot into Mr. Blimley's stomach, and knocked the lower portion of Mrs. Blimley's and knocked the lower portion of Mrs. Blimley's chin off with his right fist. As Mr. Blimley lay under the washstand, trying to decide whether he had been struck by lightining or was in an Ashtabula disaster, young Blimley set up such a yell that a neighbor next door, who has been howling for war since the 8th of November, went down into his cellar and hid under an emerts flows have a under the impression that empty flour barrel, under the impression that a general insurrection had broken out. As soon as Mr. Blimley recovered sufficiently he procured a hammer and smashed every pane of blue glass he could find. They now keep young Blimley GROCERY AND FEED STORE. gagged and chained to an anvil.

BY A THOROUGH KNOWLEDGE OF gestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fins properties of well-selected cocos, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured betweene which may save us many heavy doctors' this. It is by the judicious use of such articles of dies that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency is discase. Hundreds of nubtle mailedies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may excape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well furtified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—See article in the Civil Service Gazette.
